

The life manager

Are you forgetful? Constantly miss deadlines? Forget your significant others' birthday? Just can't seem to handle life at all? Then life manager is just right for you? Get your own life manager to well, manage your life. You can wear it as a cute stylish earring and even give it its own name. So how does it work? If something comes up that you must absolutely remember, just call its name. It will respond by asking what you want. Say what you must remember, when you must remember it or just set it to a constant reminder. You can always turn your device off by simply giving the command.
